Wine harvest in Argentina 2018

The political instability has a big effect on the economic climate of Argentina. The Argentinian Peso has lost 40% of its value in the last 12 month. The inflation rate is at 23% and unemployment stays at 8%.

It is some good news that the wine harvest in Argentina 2018 was finally very good. There were only small losses due to frost problems in the region around Mendoza. Because of an economic depression in Argentina the consumption within the country has decreased. Exports to the USA are the main market.

A reduced inland market, the good harvest und the devaluation of the Peso hade made Malbec from Argentina again attractive at attractive price levels. We are happy to prepare the right offer for you.
